Dwing to Min Therough Knowledge of th Came It Is Suggested That He Re Retained in Some Capacity in the Antiount League... Frank Borse on Changes in Pootball

President Hart of the Chicago Club has made the official announcement that Anson will no be retained, and that Tom Burns will succeed aim. The passing of the "old man" was out lined in THE SUN last week by A. G. Spalding who said that it was merely a question of wha the public and press of Chicago wanted. Th What will the old veteran do?" Anson main tains a strict silence on this point, so that ever Spalding and Hart are puzzled as to his future So far as money goes Anson is well fixed. He has received a big salary for the last ten years said to be in the neighborhood of $4,000 a year. He has also owned stock in the Chicago Club for a long time, and has done considerable suc constal amendating in Chicago real estate, so whether he remains in baseball or not, Ans will not be in any way financially embarrassed by his withdrawal from the Chleago Club. Many League men who respect Apson for what he has way should be identified with the game as long as he lives. At the coming League meeting there may be a proposition of some sort where by he will be elected an honorary member of the organization and receive permission to take part in the deliberations of the mogule. For ars Anson was the only baseball captain a! lowed to attend a League meeting. He has fre quently given advice on technical points of play to the magnates, and the latter believe that h should be placed in such a position that in fu-ture his thorough knowledge of the game and its vagaries may be put to good use. One or two League men have suggested that Anson be placed in charge of the umpires; others think that he might make an excellent Chairman of the Rules Com mittee, and it has even been suggested that he should be elected a permanent member of the National Board. Whatever the magnates do, Anson must first be consulted, for he is a sensi tive fellow, and has taken his release by the Chicago Club very much to heart. Anson be-lieves he can play ball as well as anybody, al-though he is 46 years old. If he should sign as manager of any other League club, notably St. Louis, there is no doubt that he would once more appear in uniform on first base, just to show the people who have been decrying him in recent years that he is not a "back number."

show the people who have been decrying him in recent years that he is not a "back number."

The question of new football rules is being more widely discussed every day. Franklin H. Morse, the noted ex-Princeton half back, who was a coach at "old Nassau" last year, and also efficiated as referree and umpire of different games, has some ideas which seem to be worthy of thought. He said yesterday:

"I noticed in THE SUN a suggestion that the committee should, in making up the rule book for next fall, set apart, as distinctly as possible, the respective duties of the referce, umpire, and linesmen. If the committee will do this I have no doubt that a great deal of the trouble which existed last year, especially in the smaller games, will not occur again. The fact that the rules, as they were printed in the book last fall, did not specify exactly what the duties of the officials were, made so much confusion that it was a difficult task for many of the latter to give satisfaction off-hand. During the excitement of a game, when both teams have everything at stake, decisions are sometimes made which are erroneous. There is a natural protest from a captain, and the official who has made the ruling in his endeswort to back up his opinion tries to find the rule upon which he has based his judgment. He hunts all over the book, meanwhile being surrounded by excited players, who argue the matter among themselves and also try to point out to him his mistake. After some delay he finds a rule which covers the point, but he has no jurisdiction; that instead of the refere deciding that point it should be the umpire, and so on.

"With this in view it seems advisable that the

has no jurisdiction; that instead of the referee deciding that point it should be the umpire, and so on.

"With this in view it seems advisable that the committee, as it draws up and reissues the book, should tack on to each rule just what official has jurisdiction over it. If it would put the letter R in front of every rule to be interpreted by the referee and the letter U opposite rules under the umpire's control, and make these letters in bold type, so that they could be easily picked out, it would facilitate matters greatly. Then, if the committee could put in a further summary of each official's duties, so that by running his eye over quickly a referee or umpire could find out just where the rule he wanted was, it would also do away with considerable loss of time. So far as the duties of the officials are concerned there is one particular point which I think ought to be made into a rule, and that is that both the referee and umpire should receive equal jurisdiction to decide questions of offside play and slurging. There are many instances where a referee has seen alugging and offside play, retleft it to the umpire to decide, although the latter hadn't seen the violations of the rule. The Yale-Indian game at the Polo Grounds last fall illustrated this point.

"It will be remembered that Slocovitch of Yale was offside when he ran down the field on McBride's punt, and interfered with Hudson of the Indians before the latter touched the ball. Referee Gould was charged by Tim Sur with not making a ruling there and then that the ball belonged to the Indians. It was pointed out that intraliction over the progress of the ball. Referee Gould was charged by The Sun with not making a ruling there and then that the ball belonged to the Indians. It was pointed out that jurisdiction over the progress of the ball belonged to him, but, in defence of his action, he said that the ruling should have been made by Umpire Wrenn. If each of these officials had been equally powerful in dealing out a penalty for such a play, there would have been no trouble, but it was simply a question of authority, and the Indians were made to suffer. There are many points in the rules which should be more clearly defined, especially those governing technical points of play. As they read now they are misleading and difficult to interpret, especially among schoolboys and officials who are not well up in fine points. Therefore the committee can do no harm by making the rules more to the point and by all means more concise.

Therefore the committee can do no harm by making the rules more to the point and by all means more concise.

"The football men with whom I have talked beartily concur with THE SUN's suggestion that the quarter back next fall shall be permitted to run with the ball the moment he takes it from the centre rush. I am greatly in favor of this and believe that it should have been done long age. Anybody conversant with the game will admit that the more men you can get to run with the ball the more open the game will be. If the Rules Committee decides to keep the seven rush-line men in their places until the ball has been put in play, thereby doing away with so-called mass formations, they can make what is deemed a necessary change by letting the quarter back or anybody run with the ball after receiving it directly from the centre rush. Such a role will make the game more open, will produce many more tricks, and will have the effect of creating swiftness of play behind the lines which has hitherto not been seen. The old stereotype way of snapping the ball to a quarter back, who must then pass it to somebody else before a run can be made is a waste of line. In football that is a fault which all coachers try to avoid. "There is one more point that I would like to football that is a fault which all coachers try to avoid.

"There is one more point that I would like to bring up that has not been touched upon, and that is, that a meeting of prominent referees and umpires should be held before the Rules Committee meeting and a series of suggestions drawn up by them for the consideration of the committee. Bob Wronn, Josh Hartwell, Paul Dashiel, McClung of Lehigh, Langford of Trinity, Alexander Moffat, Mines of Pennsylvania and others could properly formulate many plans for the conducting of football games on the field which would be of service, not only to the committee, but to officials all over the country."

CUBLING Moren Tenms Segin the Contest for the Ge

Eleven teams, composed of the pick of curie n this section of the country, took part in th annual Gordon medal match at the rink of the New York Thistle Association, Heboken, res terday. The contest was played under favora ble conditions, the large inclosure of ice shining like a mirror. In patring off for the epening round the New York Curling Club team drew bye. The most exciting contest in the round was between the Van Cortlandts and Empire Citys the former winning by 2 shots. The New York Thisties had an easy time in defeating the Long Islanders, the score being 30 to 10 shots. One of the best shots ever made by a curier at a ritical moment was credited to Skip Kellec of the Yonkers team in the second round. The of the Yonkers team in the second round. The team had for opponents the Van Cortlandts. They were tied at 19 shots, with Skip Kelloek to send his last stone along the course. To gain the inner tee and pass through the other stones seemed almost impossible. He was successful, however, and Yonkers won.

The Gordon match is played East and West alternately. St. Paul was the scene of last year's contest and a team from the St. Paul Curling Club won. It was composed of James McNamara. 1; Alexander E. Chentler, 2; Samuel F. Fullerton. 3; Dr. Samuel Q. Arnold, skip. Seventeen ends constitute a game in this match. An end is when both teams have finished sending their stones down one direction of the rink. The medal was first hung up for competition twenty-nine years ago. The results yesterday follow:

Gossip of the Ring. Tommy Ryan, the welterweight, has arrived at Chicago on his way to San Francisco. Peter Maher has refused an offer of $500 for a ten-round bout with O'Donnell at New Haven. The date of C. C. Smith's contest with Peter Maher has been fixed for Feb. 15 at Philadelphia. Wolf Bendorf, the English boxer, who was so easily defeated by Gus Rublin, has returned to England. Joe Gans of Saltimore has been matched to box Jack Bennett of Philadelphia this month at Baltimore. Tom Tracey of Australia and Bob Douglass will box at St. Louis to-night. Charley McKeever says he will be at the ringside to challenge the winner.

The Baitimore Boxing Club has been organized at that city. A bout between Billy Whistler and Elwood McClosky of Philadelphia will probably be the initial attraction.

The Olympic A. C. of Birmingham, England, has offered a purse of $1,000 for another contest between Eddie Connolly and an unknown, who is believed to be forn Causer. Jack Bennett of Pittsburg and Frank Gerard of Chicago have been matched to box twenty rounds before the Crescent A. C., Toronto, on March 5, for a purse of $1,000.

As it is possible that Billy Rotchford of Chicago may receive first chance to meet "Pediar" Palmer instead of Sanmy Kelly, the latter may be matched against Dave Sullivan.

"Kid" Lavigne intends to engage in a few contests before his battle with Jack Davy is decided. He has written to a club at Hot Springs offering to box any lightwelight in that section of the country. Aleck Scott and Jose Fox have algend articles. lightweight in that action of the country.

Aleck Scott and Joe Fox have signed articles to box ten rounds at 145 pounds at the club offering the best inducement. Scott says that if he whips Fox, he will meet all comers at 155 pounds.

Toxoxro, Feb. 2.—The Toronto Rowing Club has cancelled the Jack Hanley-Kid McPartland fight which was to have been pulled off at the Auditorium on next Saturday. The club has matched George Kerwin of Chicage and McPartland for a twenty-round "go" in place of the cancelled one.

Billy Madden, who is at Cincinnati, says he has received two offers for a contest between Gus Ruhlin and Peter Raber. A club in Albany has agreed to give 50 per cent. of the gate receipts for a fifteen-round contest, while the Franklin Club, near Philadelphia, has agreed to give 70 per cent for a twenty-round battle. Madden says he will not entertain any of the offers until he returns here.

NEWS OF THE WHEELMEN

NNUAL REPORTS OF CHAIRMAN MOTT AND SECRETARY BASSETT.

The Lender of the Encing Board Distribute the Fund Received from Fines to Aiders fo "Meritorious Rides"—Recommends Change in Hunning OF National Champtonahies President Potter gave out the annual report of the Chairman of the National Racing Board and Secretary Bassett yesterday. Chairman Mott's statement relates in detail to the conduct of racing during last year, and contains some recommendations for radical changes in the rules. According to his report there are over 3,000 professional racing men in the country, and while the board exercised the closes erutiny of all matters during the year, not a case of absolute crookedness was discovered while only four cases of doubtful character were noticed. Most further says that in the 2,91 neets held in 1897 there were 17,316 races decided. He figures that the value of the prizes distributed amounted to $1,645,020. It is the custom to impose fines upon professional riders for violations of the racing regulations. Mott says he distributed the fund accumulated in this way by donations of various sums to rider for what he calls "meritorious rides." He gave away in this manner $336.35, which action has aroused considerable criticism. He explains the natter in his report as follows: "Comprehending the broad words of the bylaw relating to Racing Board funds, that they shall be expended 'for the general improvement of the racing interests of the L. A. W., the amount derived from fines has been used in various instances to reward public performance conveniences for them and their trainers at race meets."

One of the most important of his recommendations relates to changing the system of running off the championables. He says:

"The method of determining the professional national champion is at fault. There were several of them for the year 1897, and in the future they should be concentrated or consolidated. There should be only one champion, and he should represent the average of the best work for the whole season at all sprinting distances. In considering this matter, the importance of the championships to the annual national meet must not be dwarfed or lost sight of. To harmonize all the conflicting interests, and yet adopt a method by which the desired object will be attained with any degree of accuracy, is a difficult matter. The nearest approach to it appears to be as follows, and that method is recommended: The professional national championships shall be determined by points. In granting sanction for national circuit meets at lesst one national championship race subject to the approval of the Chairman shall be run on each day of the meet (and as many others as desired by the promoter) at any of the distances named in the championship rule, namely: one-quarter, one-third, one-half, one, two and five miles. In these races the at any of the distances named in the championship rule, namely: one-quarter, one-third, onehalf, one, two and five miles. In these races the first prize must not be less than $100. Not more than $1 entrance fee shall be charged fout even that to be waived if the promoter chooses, and no one shall be allowed to start whose regular entry, made out on a proper blank, has not been filed with the promoter in compliance with the rules. When there are more than five entries trial heats shall be run until the contestants are reduced to not more than five for the final. The first to finish in the final shall count five in the championship table, the next four, the next three, the next two, and the next one.

"The professional championships at the national meet shall be run is the same manner.

the next four, the next three, the next two, and the next one.

"The professional championships at the national meet shall be run is the same manner, except that the first to finish in the final shall count 50, the next 40, the next 30, the next 20, and the next 10. The national circuit shall begin not earlier than May 14 and end not later than Oct. 15. The points to the credit of each contestant shall be published weekly in the builetin of the Chairman, and the contestant having the greatest number at all distances at the end of the national circuit shall be declared the champion. No excessive time limits shall be placed on those races, and they shall be open to the world. In the trial heats of these races pacemakers shall not qualify for the final, and no one shall be allowed to compete in the final for any other reason than winning one of the qualifying positions. If there is a dead heat between any two or more, those making the dead heat may run it over or decide by lot, at the discretion of the referce.

"For obvious reasons, the national amateur championships should be determined entirely at the national meet, and there should be only one champion. The distances under the rule being from one-quarter to live miles, the running of those races, and the intermediate distances or any part of them put on the national meet programme, except the one mile, should be in the nature of qualifying races, the winners of first and second positions of those finals to qualify for the one-mile race (that being the nearest acceptable mean of all the distances), and the winner of the one-mile race should be declared the national mateur champion. This plan is by no means perfect, but the objections to determining the amateur champion by the method proposed for the professional champion are insurmountable, the strongest who could afford the large expenses."

Mott urges that track owners should be made to provide good quarters for racing men and trainers. To improve the judging of the order of finish at races he recommends that racing men is suggested upon the payment of a fee not to exceed $2. The financial report of the board shows that the receipts for last year were $9.426.97, the expenditures $7.594.39, leaving a balance of $1.832.68. To guard against the practice of trickery in racing Mott's report outsing the following:

the practice of trickery in racing Mott's report contains the following:

"Any 'unfair dealing' in connection with cycle racing has a penalty attached, but the term is so general that it is not always comprehended. It is the intention of the L.A. W. to have everything identified with bloycle racing open to public scrutiny and criticism, so that the public shall not be invelgled by false pretences into paying for entertainment which if does not astually receive. Any 'faking of the public, such as knowingly having a 'short track,' the length of which is unannounced, exaggerating purses and prizes, including alleged 'side beta,' or any deception by polite fictions born of the greed for gain is not permissible, and it is recommended that it be more specifically and clearly provided for by the racing rules. Every promoter, racing man, manager, trainer or any other person conman, manager, trainer or any other person con-nected with bicycle racing should be compelled to exercise common business honesty in racing transactions."

The annual report of Secretary Bassett of the L. A.W., which will be presented to the National Assembly next week, shows that the total membership of the League up to the end of the year was 102,036, against 72,879 the year before. The gross income of the Secretary's office was $165,042,08, an increase of $41,546,90 over the previous year. In some of the Eastern divisions the membership has grown rapidly, while in the West and South there has been a loss of membership. President C. S. Dikeman of the National Board of Trade of Cycle Manufacturers was in town yesterday. Talking over the outlook for this year, he claims that the prospect of a big season is encouraging. He says that the local dealers throughout the country are in better condition than last year, and it is his belief that the reduction in the price of standard bicycles will tend to put business on more of a cash basis.

The result of the deliberations of the L. A. W. Racing Board this week is contained in the following bulletin: lowing bulletin:

The Eim City Gaclic A. A., New Haven, has been placed upon the list of those to whom sanctions will be refused for promoting an unsanctioned race.

The midweek reunion at the Brooklyn Club's couri was especially attractive yesterday owing to the presence of James Fitzgerald, the Irish champion and Villiam Carney, the noted Chicago player wh defeated him, home and home, last season. Naturally the two rivals figured on opposite sides, Carney goin n with Phil Casey, while Fitzgerald joined force with James Dunn, Jr. The latter pair dropped the first game by nine aces, but won the next two and the rubber. Fitzgerald and James Dunne, Jr., figured In an exciting duel later on, the professional winning atraight games by a narrow margin. A match for a special stake resulted to a win for J. Mitchell and J. POULTRY AND PIGEORS AT HOME IN THE GARDEN.

United States Navy-Mavemeyer Brothers Befeated in White Fantaile-Robinson's Langsbaue Win from the Sempetend Farm. Every feathered star was on its best beha vior yesterday at the Poultry, and Pigeon Show in Mudicon Square Garden, and they proved it by foud acclaim, after the manner of their kind. There was a good attendance, and the dealers shared the good feeling of the box office, for many of the visitors invested in fine birds, Two of the big bronze turkeys, including a brother to the blue ribbon winner, were sold for shipment to England, where they are to make the circultof the shows. The prairie dogs arrived in the morning sa'e and sound, after being snowbound, and proved to be a lively and companionable lot. When not playing with the spectators who noticed them, for they have no timidity and like to be patted. the quaint little animals sat up erect and sur veyed the sights, as they sit at the entrance to their burrows on the plains. The specimens on view were raised in captivity, which accounts for their friendliness. Next in interest among the pet stock is the brood of vari-colored Japanese rabbits. They were brought from England, and this is the first time the breed

It was flyers' day, for the greatest interest entred in the judging of the pigeons. Broadly stated, the features were the defeat of the Havemeyer brothers in two of the three classes for white, fantails, a type that they have usually swept the boards in, by Norton, an older but far less extensive breeder; the grand showing of pouters, and the prominence achieved by the birds shown by the Homer Pigeon Service of the United States Navy. The judging in the classes for homers with records established clearly that Uncle Sam, in time of need, will not lack for rapid aerial communication. One of them has a record of 1,438 yards a minute, a speed that would carry it from Havana to Key West in time that could only be beaten by

In all, over 1,600 single birds were passed upon by the pigeon judges vesterday. From the tiny American owls to the largest-bodied pigsons known, which are called by a playful twist of nomenclature the "runts," the judges found that every class contained no lack of high-class pecimens. There are no new varieties on view, which is regarded by the fanciers as a healthfor it shows that the American types are settled and that the time is past when a sin-Taking up the birds of defence first, the U S. N. exhibits figured in a class having individual records ranging from 200 to 400 miles. W. J. Stanton, the judge, allowed the records to count heaviest in the award of points, but plumage, agility, and carriage were Talso dwelt pon. In the class for homer hens the U. S. N. pirds were a blue one, that, among other performances, once carried a message 150 miles from the battleship Texas at sea to Tompkins rille, S. I., and a red checkered hen imported from Belgium, which has records of flights from Lyons, Moulin, Le Charte, and other points for its former owner. The best Uncle Sam could do in this class was to score a second and third to a blue hen shown by J. F. Doremus. In the class for male honers the navy had better luck. First honors in the class were awarded to an imported blue checkered bird, brought from Belgium. It is a lithe, clean-cut flyer, with the speed record of 1,438 yards a minute. Second place, was taken also by a U. S., N. bird, an imported red checkered cock and a great-grandson of Doukeren, who has a record of 780 miles and is, noted among fanciers abroad. Doremus was third with another of nis blue racers. This is the first time the U. S. N. homers have been shown in this country. In the three classes for white fantalis the Havemeyers scored only one blue ribbon. This was in the class for old male birds, in which No. 2,381 scored in symmetry, style, carriage and shape of tail over H. C. Norton's entry, No. 2,354. At Boston a fortnight ago the same judge, James Blair, placed the Havemeyer bird third to Norton's entry. He explained the reversal of form by the statement that the two had now reversed places in point of condition. In the class for heas Norton's Baby Blair had the best feather and style. Havemeyer was second and the rest nowhere. In the third class, for cocks or hens hatched in 1897, Norton scored his greatest victory over the young millionaires. He won the blue ribbon and also the $100 special cup with No. 2,385, a hea that is a little gem, full of life and action, with hard, unruffled tail, and the roundest and smallest in the class. It was an easy win.

In the special for the best fantali at the show, however, the Havemeyers beat this hen with an 1897 black male. The same bird also scored a similar performance at Boston. Other points being equal, the color would turn the verdict in favor of the black bird against any fantali in this country. It is rare to get a bird true to type in black, and the one under consideration is the best, the experts say, that has ever, been hatched in America. It is a better bi points for its former owner. The best Uncle Sam could do in this class was to score a second type in black, and the one under consideration is the best, the experts say, that has ever, been hatched in America. It is a better bird, too, according to the same authorities, than any black fantail over imported by the Havemeyers. They appreciate the value of the winner, for an offer of $150 was refused for it at Boston.

This is exceptional value for a fantail or for any pigeon. The pouters are the highest-priced pigeons caged. The birds are nearly all imported from Scotland, where they are valued at from $25 to $75 apiece. Next to carriage, the markings count the highest. A nearly ideal pouter in markings is No. 1,800, a black pied hen and a blue ribbon winner. The veriest novice would be impressed by the beauty of the characteristic marks. The body color is a lustrous, metallic-tinted black. Acroes the breast is a perfect white crescent, on which rests the dark bib, and the other points accentuated by white are the pinion marks, the ten fly feathers and the fringe of the girth and legs. In the pigmy pouters the large type is reproduced in miniature, but this sort lacks distinction.

Pouters are the greatest of all feathered pets. Like the fantails and Jacobins, they are always judged in a walking pen. To make a bird show to the best advantage the judge prods it under the beak in a folly way, and the pouter responds as cheerfully as a kitten. As it pecks and flutters about, full of glee and pride at being noticed, it swells up in front like a balloon, which is what the judge wants. When in their cages the pouters are as easer to be petted by the passersby as a spaniel at a bench show. It is a novel sight to watch the fantalis in the walking pens. The best birds, no matter how they swell up, keep the fly feathers of their wings tucked under the tails, and so, although they bend back until the head touches the tail, they are able to walk about on an even keel. The poorer birds have short fly feathers, and as they swell and do the backward bend the wings elliption in spite of all desperate efforts. The fantal

President De Cordova and Others of the Briving Club Parer a One-Mile Course. The Executive Committee of the Driving Club of New York met yesterday at the office of President De Cordova to confer about the loca tion of the proposed new trotting track. So the Committee on Location is kept busy looking over the available property, and its work is not yet finished. President De Cordova is one of those who believe that nothing less than a full mile course, the best and fastest in the country, will meet the requirements. He said yesterday: country, will meet the requirements. He said yesterday:

"I want to give assurance to the admirers of the trotting horse that the Executive Committee of the Driving Club is using every effort to find a suitable location as near the city as possible where we can build a mile track, with grand stand, clubhouse, and other improvements, that will be fit and worthy to represent the trotting interest and the city of New York, Why should not New York, with all its wealth represented in the trotting horse, have the fastest, best equipped course in the world! And why should we not have over this track a great day each year and a great race that would be for the American trotting horse what the Derby is in England for the thoroughbred—a Hambletonian Day! Trotting is easentially an American sport, and we ought to have a great representative trotting race every year and have it in New York."

Dermatologist John H. Woodbury's Spe cial Surgeon will be at his New York office 127 W. 42d st., Monday, Feb'y 7 to Feb's 12 inclusive, to perform operations for correcting featural irregularities and deformities and removing all blemishes and disfigurements from the human face and body. To insure prompt attention appointments for this particular work should be made at Dermatologist John H. Woodbury and his Special Surgeon have just returned from broad, where in London and Paris they performed a number of featural operations for straightening crooked and pug noses, and the removal of wrinkles, birthmarks, &c., much to the astonishment of the English and French medical profession, who had never before witnessed operations so successfully accomplished. Dermatologist Woodbury's instruments for performing these operations (which are protected by patents held by him) also received the highest commendation from the profession abroad.

The John H. Woodbury Dermatological Institute, 127 West 42d street, New York, has long since acquired a reputation far above any institution or college in America for its rapid advancement and progress in investigating and improving every new discovery in the medical sciences. It was the first institution in the world to correct deformities of the features by painless plastic surgery. Outstanding cars, a great annoyance to so many people, deformed noses, pug, Roman and broad noses are made ideal cars and noses by the surgeons of the John H. Woodbury Institute. Women who have once had beautiful and plump faces and now thin, drooping cheeks, covered with wrinkles, can look as they did ten to twenty years ago.

We remove all Facial Blemishes, Moles Warts, Pimples, Wens, Acne, Flesh Worms, Superfluous Hair, Eczema, Freckles, Scars, Wrinkles, Birthmarks, Red Veins, Barber's Itch, by latest improved methods, and all diseases of the skin, acute or chronic, are treated scientifically. The many thousands we treat and cure annually give us a wider range of experience than any general practitioner.

Our secret of success is to employ the hest talent in the world, to advise our patients conscientiously, and thus establish a solid and lasting reputation, and to give a careful examination of each individual case. We use a wide range of medicine, internal and external; surgery and all the various forms of electricity. Consultation is free and fees very reasonable. Dermatologist John H. Woodbury also manufactures Woodbury's Facial Soap, Facial Cream, Facial Powder and Dental Cream, and will mail you a sample of each sufficient for three weeks' use on receipt of 20 cents, and three weeks use on receipt of 20 cents, and include his book on Dermatology and treatment of the skin, scalp, and complexion. The regular size of Woodbury's Facial Soap, Facial Cream, Facial Powder and Dental Cream are sold everywhere at 25 cents each.
